Number 100 on our hottest male celebrities is Edward Norton, an American film actor, producer, screen writer, and director.

He got his first role in 1994 in a movie called "Only in America". And hasn't stopped acting since. He has been in twenty four films all together including three that are in production right now. Although Edward Norton has made many great movies such as Red Dragon, The Italian Job, and the latest one, The Incredible Hulk, my favorite movie that he stars in is Fight Club. That movie is funny, has a great story, and it has one of the best endings of all the movie endings I have ever seen.

He belongs in the top hundred hotties list because he is an amazing actor. That was proven with Fight Club and Red Dragon. I like the fact that he likes what he is doing and he is actually good at it. Ladies... The man has a job! A good paying job too. Actually he has four jobs... actor, producer, screen writer, and director. And he is good at all of them.

Another reason why is made the list is because he is smart. I don't mean just smart I mean super smart. He attended and graduated in 1991 from Yale University. Plus his father worked around Asia as a Environmental Lawyer and Conservation Advocate, so when Edward Norton went to help his father (after graduating) in Osaka, Japan, he learned how to speak Japanese. You have to be smart to learn Japanese. That seems like a hard language to go from English to.

He is funny! I mean to be a good actor, you pick roles that you want instead of just taking any role you can get. Edward Norton seems to pick roles that he likes where he can show a little bit of his personality in but also show that he can act.

Finally he is just good looking. I mean '1? That's sexy. Green eyes? That's super sexy. Plus it is great that he is in shape too! Plus you know what they say SMART + SEXY= SMEXY. And Edward Norton has both of those factors.

So those are the reasons the wonderful Edward Norton comes in number 100. I needed someone like him to start off the list like that.
